In this highlight, Christine Graham speaks on... the use of expert witnesses

The transcript of the highlight begins on the following page.

- 00:00 In, in the trial that I'm doing now, I didn't use an expert but I could s-, I've certainly considered using an expert in relation to a speech that was given. And so you could use the expert evidence for context.
- 00:13 You could use it for interpretation becau-, what the speech meant at that particular point, how was it understood by the people that was i-, in attendance. Kinyarwanda is a very subtle language. There's a lot of proverbs. I could see for those reasons.
